Igniting Change Through Sociology / Susciter le changement par la sociologie

The local and global developments of the past few years have revealed the deep inadequacy of our existing social structures and institutions in facing today's challenges and for creating just, democratic, inclusive, tolerant, and flourishing societies. This has given us an opportunity to reflect on the kind of changes that can bring about those goals. The annual conference of the Canadian Sociological Association provides a forum to engage in serious dialogues about how to ignite such changes.

Les développements locaux et mondiaux de ces dernières années ont révélé la profonde inadéquation de nos structures et institutions sociales existantes pour faire face aux défis d'aujourd'hui et pour créer des sociétés justes, démocratiques, inclusives, tolérantes et florissantes. Cette situation nous a permis de réfléchir au type de changements qui peuvent permettre d'atteindre ces objectifs. La conférence annuelle de la Société canadienne de sociologie offre une tribune pour engager des dialogues sérieux sur la façon de susciter de tels changements

Land Acknowledgement / Reconnaissance du territoire

While we meet here on a virtual platform, we should take a moment to recognize the importance of the land on which we are each located. We acknowledge the territory to reaffirm our commitment and responsibility in building positive relationships between nations and in developing a deep understanding of Indigenous peoples and their cultures. From coast to coast to coast, we acknowledge the ancestral and unceded territory of all Inuit, First Nations, and Métis peoples.

Alors que nous nous réunissons ici sur une plateforme virtuelle, nous devrions prendre un moment pour reconnaître l'importance de la terre sur laquelle nous vivons tous. Nous reconnaissons le territoire pour réaffirmer notre engagement et notre responsabilité pour la mise en place de relations positives entre les nations et pour le développement d'une compréhension profonde des peuples autochtones et de leurs cultures. D'un océan à l'autre, nous reconnaissons le territoire ancestral et non cédé de tous les Inuits, Métis et Premières Nations.

NEW IN SOCIOLOGY

CSSHE/CSSE/CSA Flagship event: Transforming our Educational Systems: Responding to the TRC and Federation's "Igniting Change" EDID Recommendations in Education

Date: Sunday, May 15

Time (ET): 12:45 PM - 2:00 PM

The CSSHE and the Federation of the Humanities and Social Sciences are committed to Reconciliation and EDID and have established records of working collaboratively with members of the broader educational community to anchor these principles into the life and work of our associations, institutions, and professional practices. Each member of this panel is a top researcher, practitioner, and institutional leader who has helped deepen recognition of the importance of EDID and the need for social justice throughout our institutional structures and educational systems. They will be asked to discuss ways we might increase BIPOC and LGBTQI representation in education; explore ways we can address systemic privilege in our institutions; and consciously work to disrupt the status quo and clear pathways to transformative action, equity and justice on our campuses.

(PLN1) Understanding Social Transition Through the Lens of Soft Universalism

Date: Monday, May 16

Time (ET): 11:00 AM - 12:00 PM

This is an Open Congress event. Simultaneous translation in French and live closed captioning is provided with support from the Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences International Keynote Speaker Support Fund.

In the course of humanity, pandemics (leprosy, plagues, cholera, etc.) have induced deep societal changes in all social, economic, and political spheres. The COVID-19 pandemic as a social phenomenon is no exception. How to understand these transitions through the lens of universalism? How to reconcile the local and the universal? What kind of universalism? In this talk, I propose the concept of soft universalism, a type of universalism that is: a) the outcome of a quasi-cross-cultural consensus; b) not a teleological concept, but a historical experience that gets its normativity as a result of a collective historical learning process; and c) conceived as an imaginary with a general wide flexibility, rather than a model to be exported.

Keynote Speaker: Sari Hanafi, American University of Beirut and President - International Sociological Association

Moderator: Abdie Kazemipur, University of Calgary and President - Canadian Sociological Association

(PLN2) Education in Canada: The American Dream or the New Inequality?

2021 Outstanding Contribution Award Lecture

Date: Monday, May 16

Time (ET): 1:00 PM - 2:00 PM

This is an open Congress event.

One of the most remarkable policy achievements in the twentieth century has been the massive increase in educational attainment across populations. In Canada, these changes have contributed to increased opportunities and enhanced well-being for many previously excluded groups to the extent that some observers are calling the nation the new home of the American dream. However, educational attainment levels remain relatively low for many Canadians. This paper, adopting the stance that education does matter, explores the nature and consequences of educational inequality in contemporary Canadian society.

Keynote Speaker: Terry Wotherspoon, University of Saskatchewan

Moderator: Irene Shankar, Mount Royal University and President-Elect - Canadian Sociological Association

(CND2) Canadian Network of Durkheimian Studies Cluster Meeting

Date: Monday, May 16

Time (ET): 5:00 PM - 6:00 PM

We aim to critically, creatively, and reflexively combine empirical, theoretical, historical, and textual research together, with a view to egalitarian, emancipatory, and democratic practice in sociology and political practice more broadly. Our 2022 meeting will discuss items such as: news and updates from members, membership engagement and expansion, communications protocols, website development, organizational matters, connections with other Research Clusters, publication and conference opportunities, and planning for 2023.

Chair: Ronjon Paul Datta, University of Windsor

(CRM4) Criminology and Law Research Cluster Meeting

Date: Monday, May 16

Time (ET): 5:00 PM - 6:00 PM

This cluster brings together scholars and professionals in the areas of crime, punishment, law, criminal justice, regulation, and policy. Researchers in sociology, criminology, law, and professionals from Canada and elsewhere will find a platform that promotes dialogue, networking, and the meaningful exchange of research and pedagogy in the field. This meeting is open to current members and those interested in learning more about our cluster activities. Attendees will have an opportunity to network with others working in this field of research and/or teaching. We welcome feedback on our current activities and encourage suggestions for future initiatives.

Chair: Nathan Innocente, University of Toronto

(DIS8) Sociology of Disability Research Cluster Meeting

Date: Monday, May 16

Time (ET): 5:00 PM - 6:00 PM

The Sociology of Disability covers a number of methodological approaches to understanding disability. Research in this area spans many fields and topics, including medicine, sexuality, education, and a wide range of others. This meeting is open to current members and those interested in learning more about sociologies of disability. Attendees will have an opportunity to network with graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, faculty, and community researchers working in this field of research and teaching. We welcome feedback on our current activities and encourage suggestions for future initiatives.

Chairs: Kristen Hardy, University of Winnipeg; Danielle E. Lorenz, University of Alberta

(EDU10) Sociology of Education Research Cluster Meeting

Date: Monday, May 16

Time (ET): 5:00 PM - 6:00 PM

Sociology of education covers a wide methodological, theoretical and conceptual terrain. While research in this area is most associated with examinations of schools, inequality, and economic development, this scholarship intersects with a variety of research including studies of early child development, parenting, childhood and adolescence, and health. This research cluster will serve to enhance dialogue and networking among sociologists of education in Canada. Our meeting will more comprehensively envision the goals and priorities of the cluster.

Chairs: Alana Butler, Queen's University; Cathlene Hillier, Crandall University

(HOU2) Sociology of Housing Research Cluster Meeting

Date: Monday, May 16

Time (ET): 5:00 PM - 6:00 PM

This meeting is open to current members and those interested in learning more about our cluster activities. Attendees will have an opportunity to network with others working in this field of research and/or teaching. We welcome feedback on our current activities and encourage suggestions for future initiatives.

Chairs: Katie MacDonald, Athabasca University and Esther de Vos, Independent Scholar

(KNW7) Sociology of Knowledge Research Cluster Meeting

Date: Monday, May 16

Time (ET): 5:00 PM - 6:00 PM

We welcome all scholars of any career stage who are interested in the study of knowledge in all its forms. We advocate an expansive view of knowledge as a research topic, and welcome scholars curious about the full spectrum of representations of reality and social life, including those using knowledge as a lens for examining other sub-fields and empirical subjects in sociology. Because we're a new cluster, we're especially interested in hearing from folks interested in discussing or getting involved in the future of the cluster. Our aim is to create a positive, accessible, and laid-back venue for exploring this far-reaching topic.

Chairs: Will Keats-Osborn, Independent Scholar; Lily Ivanova, University of British Columbia

(SOS2) Sociology of Sport Research Cluster Meeting

Date: Monday, May 16

Time (ET): 5:00 PM - 6:00 PM

This meeting is open to current members and those interested in learning more about our cluster activities. Attendees will have an opportunity to network with others working in this field of research and/or teaching. We welcome feedback on our current activities and encourage suggestions for future initiatives.

Chair: Martine Dennie, University of Calgary

(BCS2) Reflections on Embodied Research in Sociology

Date: Tuesday, May 17

Time (ET): 11:00 AM - 12:30 PM

This session highlights the voices and experiences of established Black sociologists in Canada. Our objective is to have panellists present their ongoing research and to reflect on embodiment, ideas, presentations, and the overlap of anti-racist theory and practice in their work. This session is hosted by the Canadian Sociological Association's Black Caucus.

(PLN3) Beyond the Crossroads: Persisting Colonial Patterns, Changing Settler Mindsets

John Porter Tradition of Excellence Book Award Lecture

Date: Tuesday, May 17

Time (ET): 11:00 AM - 12:00 PM

This is an open Congress event.

Drawing on the author's 2020 book, Canada at a Crossroads: Boundaries, Bridges, and Laissez-Faire Racism in Indigenous-Settler Relations, this presentation will first outline a model – informed by group position theory, settler colonial theory, and critical Indigenous studies – for explaining persistent anti-Indigenous racism. Based on ethnographic, archival, and interview research with Anishinaabe, Métis, and white residents of Treaty #3 Territory (Northwestern Ontario), it will highlight how social psychological processes – including settlers' sense of group superiority and entitlement, subtyping, and avoidance – reduce the effectiveness of commonly proposed solutions, such as intergroup contact and education.

This is a Q&A live session with our Keynote Speaker. Delegates may view the presentation in advance available 'on-demand' through the CSA Conference virtual platform.

Keynote Speaker: Jeffrey Denis, McMaster University

Moderator: Vanessa Watts, McMaster University

Transitions towards Inclusive Innovation – People, Planet AND Profit?

Date: Wednesday, May 18

Time (ET): 11:30 AM - 1:00 PM

Environmental studies have created a lot of knowledge and sparked much innovation over the past decades – yet we are still facing a global climate change crisis. This session aims to spark an interdisciplinary conversation on innovation paths towards global impact and system transformations. This session will begin with a keynote on inclusive innovation – highlighting the importance of being inclusive in terms of demographics and skill sets involved in innovation, inclusive in terms of the types of activities considered innovative, inclusive in terms of the outcomes for people, the planet and also profits, and finally, inclusive in terms of trusted governance of innovation.

We then proceed to a conversation, encouraging diverse perspectives on innovation and the environment – especially inviting a multi-generational conversation on innovation collaboration towards environmental outcomes.

The event is organized with the collaboration of the Canadian Sociological Association.

(RAS1) Sociology and the Internationalization of Canadian Higher Education

Date: Thursday, May 19

Time (ET): 11:00 AM - 12:30 PM

This is an open Congress event.

The internationalization of Canadian higher education is estimated to bring in $21 billion to Canada's economy each year. But many, including education researchers and international students themselves, are speaking out against a system they believe to be fraudulent and unethical. Academic sociologists are well-positioned to explore the internationalization of Canadian higher education, both as social scientists and as reluctant or enthusiastic personnel in the higher ed sector, but there has been limited collective discussion. This panel, organized by the CSA Research Advisory Subcommittee, opens a conversation for sociologists hailing from different subfields to discuss this phenomenon.

Moderator: Neda Maghbouleh, University of Toronto Mississauga

Panelists:

Pallavi Banerjee, University of Calgary

Dakshana Bascaramurty, The Globe and Mail

Isabel Fandino, University of Calgary

Sarom Rho, Migrant Workers Alliance for Change

(THE1) Global Public Sociology and Theorizing Emotions: The Greatness and Limitations of Erich Fromm's Sociology

Date: Thursday, May 19

Time (ET): 11:00 AM - 12:30 PM

Building on the theme of this year's Conference Igniting Change Through Sociology, this invited panel will examine and respond to Neil McLaughlin's new book "Erich Fromm and Global Public Sociology". McLaughlin demonstrates the powerful insights that Fromm unearthed and how Fromm was able, with varying degrees of success, to share these insights with broader publics through popular books. Beginning from an examination of McLaughlin's argument this session will consider how the case of Erich Fromm can help us think through a global public sociology that theorizes emotion, one capable of igniting social and cultural change.

Panelists:

Alex Bing, Carleton University

Neil McLaughlin, McMaster University

Robert Nonomura, Western University

Susan Prentice, University of Manitoba

Dean Ray, York University

Date: Friday, May 20

Time (ET): 11:00 AM - 12:00 PM

This is an open Congress event.

Racial disparities in health are large and persistent. While decades of research have clearly established race-based disparities in health, less attention has been paid to the way in which race is conceptualized and measured in the study of health disparities. This presentation is based on a study that uses a comparative perspective on race, nativity, and health to advance knowledge on whether there is heterogeneity in the health status of Black and White populations across nation states and how different social contexts influence the racial patterning of health.

Moderator: Jinette Comeau, King's University College at Western

Keynote Speaker: Patricia Louie, University of Washington
