OFFICIAL TERRITORIAL ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

We recognize that many Indigenous Nations have longstanding relationships with the territories upon which York University campuses are located that precede the establishment of York University. York University acknowledges its presence on the traditional territory of many Indigenous Nations. The area known as Tkaronto has been care taken by the Anishinabek Nation, the Haudenosaunee Confederacy and the Huron-Wendat. It is now home to many First Nation, Inuit and Métis communities. We acknowledge the current treaty holders, the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation. This territory is subject of the Dish with One Spoon Wampum Belt Covenant, an agreement to peaceably share and care for the Great Lakes region.

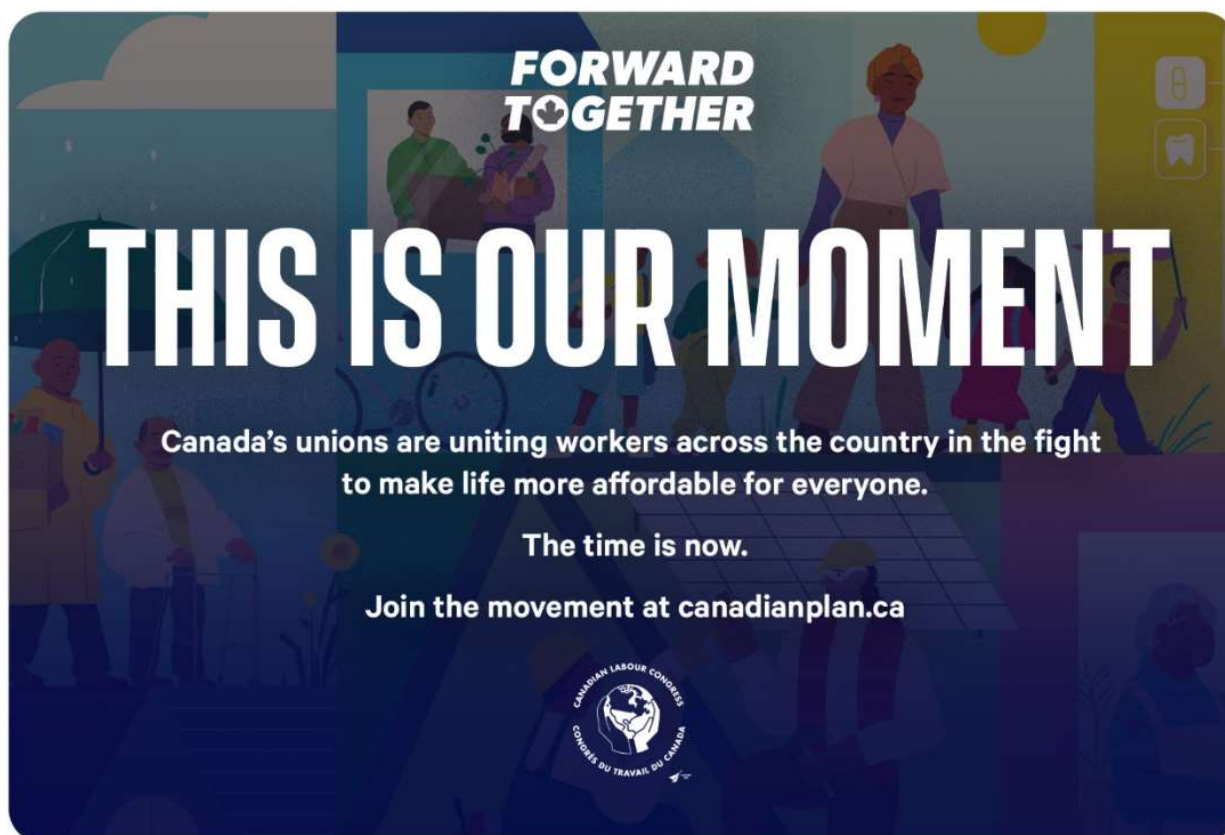

ACETS reconnaissons que nous sommes accueillis sur les terres des Mississaugas des Anichinabés, de la Confédération Haudenosaunee et du Wendat. Nous voulons également reconnaître la pérennité de la présence des Premières Nations, des Métis et des Inuit.

SFU LABOUR STUDIES PROGRAM

THE WORLD OF WORK IS CHANGING

The Labour Studies Program at Simon Fraser University equips you with the knowledge and experience to tackle complex issues shaping the lives of workers and the future of work. Whether you're a student interested in advocacy, an experienced member of the workforce, or an individual involved with labour organizing, our undergraduate programs and courses welcome people of all ages and experience levels.

President's Welcome // Le mot du président

It is a great pleasure to welcome all our participants to the 9th annual CAWLS conference. It seems like it was only yesterday that the organization was founded in Toronto by a group of dedicated labour scholars and activists who were looking for a new home to engage critically with work and labour studies. We are proud that ten years after that initial meeting, our association continues to grow.

This year is also noteworthy because it will be our first in-person conference since 2019. Recognizing the challenges that the pandemic placed on our annual gathering, we thank all those who participated in our on-line conferences for the past two years. Our annual gathering has become an important meeting place for both academics and researchers concerned with workers' rights, unions, workers' activism, and the struggle for fair and decent work. In many ways, the reality of the pandemic and the need to reimagine work and labour in the wake of COVID-19 makes our gathering even more important.

Building on the theme of 'Unmaking Global Capitalism', our program committee has brought together plenary and panel discussions that showcase the cutting-edge and multidisciplinary nature of the field of work and labour studies. Inside you will find panels on the challenges of labour journalism in the current era, challenges for workers after Covid-19, workers in the gig economy, and so much more.

We need to refocus on building solidarity with workers, activists, academics, and all of those fighting for a better world. With a focus on solidarity, our organization continues to strive for racial and gender justice both in our scholarship and inside our organization. I hope you find the conference both inspiring and stimulating.

In solidarity, Charles Smith, President

Canadian Association for Work and Labour Studies

C'est avec grand plaisir que nous accueillons toutes les personnes participant à cette 9e conférence annuelle de l'ACETS. Il semble que ce n'était qu'hier que l'organisation était fondée à Toronto par un groupe de chercheuses et chercheurs et d'activistes à la recherche d'un nouvel endroit pour entamer un débat critique sur l'emploi et les études du travail et du syndicalisme. Nous sommes fiers que dix ans après cette première rencontre, notre association continue de prendre de l'expansion.

Cette année est importante puisqu'il s'agira de notre première rencontre en personne depuis 2019. Nous sommes conscients des défis posés par la pandémie sur notre conférence et remercions toutes les personnes ayant participé à nos conférences en ligne depuis les 2 dernières années. Notre réunion annuelle est devenue un endroit important pour les personnes œuvrant en recherche sur les droits du travail, les syndicats, le militantisme et les combats pour des emplois et salaires décents. À plusieurs égards, les réalités de la pandémie et le besoin de réimaginer l'emploi et le travail à l'aube de la COVID-19 rendent notre congrès encore plus important.

En construisant autour du thème 'Défaire le Capitalisme Global', notre comité de programmation a combiné plénières et groupes de discussion qui démontrent l'avant-garde et la nature multidisciplinaire du champ des études de l'emploi et du syndicalisme. À l'intérieur, vous trouverez des panels sur les défis pour les travailleurs et travailleuses après le COVID-19, le travail dans l'économie à la tâche, et plus encore.

Nous devons nous recentrer sur la construction d'une solidarité avec les travailleurs et travailleuses, les activistes, les universitaires, et toutes les personnes qui luttent pour un monde meilleur. En se basant sur la solidarité, notre organisation continue sa quête de justice raciale, de genre en recherche et au sein de notre organisation. En espérant que cette conférence soit inspirante et stimulante.

Solidairement, Charles Smith, Président,

Association Canadienne d'Études du Travail et du Syndicalisme

"This memoir disrupts a colossal silence in the history of Canadian food, labour, and agriculture. Through a mix of deft analysis and storytelling, Allahdua reveals the structures of power that have long suppressed the voices of migrant farm workers in Canada."

—Simon Vickers, archivist and historian

"One of the only books by and of migrant farm workers' experiences and struggles in Canada, Harvesting Freedom is deeply inspiring, moving, eye-opening, and motivating. An essential read that will shake you to your core."

—Harsha Walia, author of Border and Rule

"A scathing indictment of the temporary farm labour system"
